Gaggle Platform User Guide / Safety Tab 📎   • • •
What does the Incident Type graph show?

Created by Corey Tutewiler
Last updated Apr 04, 2016

Not all inappropriate content is equally concerning, so we have three types of incidents, based on the severity of the content.

+ The total number of incidents displays in the top left corner.

+ The graph will display a visual of incident types and exact statistics on each incident type.

+ Select the More details drop-down to view information on individual incidents.

Violations: User violations are minor infractions. These generally include inappropriate content where there is no imminent threat or danger to the student and others.

QCON: Questionable Content includes more severe material. This generally includes mentions of recent drug or alcohol use, racist messages, bullying and threats toward the self or others, when there is no imminent possibility of danger to the student or others.

PSS: Possible Student Situations include time-sensitive situations when there is an imminent possibility of danger to the student or others. These can include self-produced pornography, suicidal intentions, threats of violence, intense instances of bullying and clues that a student may presently be in possession of drugs or alcohol.

Having trouble finding what you're looking for? Select here for our Live Chat Support.

No labels

Having trouble finding what you're looking for? Select here for our Live Chat Support.

No labels